On Monday, February 9, 2004, at approximately 7:30 pm, a black Saturn sedan belonging to 21-year-old Maura Murray traveled off Route 112 in Haverhill, New Hampshire, where it became immobilized. When police arrived at the crash scene, Maura was not present, and she has remained missing ever since. Maura was last seen on surveillance footage earlier in the day at an ATM wearing a white jacket and jeans. Prior to this, Maura left the University of Massachusetts Amherst, where she was studying nursing, without informing anyone of her plans to travel to New Hampshire — a destination that was 2.5 hours away.

Maura received her prior education at the United States Military Academy at West Point, was an avid runner, and enjoyed hiking in the White Mountains.
